

I think I may be a Mayflower descendant. How do I prove it?

I am new to genealogy.

- Start with what you already know! The easiest path to discovering your family history is to begin documenting your family starting with yourself and working backwards to your parents, grandparents, great-grandparents, etc.
- The New England Historic Genealogical Society provides a wealth of free instructional materials on how to begin your genealogical research.
- FamilySearch.org is a free genealogical website that provides access to innumerable historical documents and books. Their wiki page can be of assistance in navigating their extensive collections.
- Other useful genealogical websites include Ancestry.com, fold3, Newspapers.com, American Ancestors, and Find my past (paid subscriptions); Find a Grave, BillionGraves, and Chronicling America (free).

I am just beginning my Mayflower research.

- Watch our Getting Started video in order to learn about Mayflower research and our application process.
- Try the Mayflower Descendants Search on FamilySearch.org. This community tree was created from documentation held at the Mayflower Society. While nothing found on this community tree is guaranteed to be accurate, it can give you an idea of which of your ancestors may have been descended from a Mayflower passenger.
- Check with your local library for our Mayflower Families through Five Generations books. These publications, known colloquially as the "Silver Books," document at least the first five generations of descent from many of the Mayflower passengers.

I already have an idea of what my Mayflower lineage may be.

- Try our Mayflower Lineage Match service. For $75, our team will compare your proposed lineage to our previously approved lineages in order to determine if any portion of your lineage has previously been accepted by the society. We will then send you an email with your results and information about how to apply for membership.
- Contact one of our 54 Member Societies to inquire about beginning the application process.
- Watch our Genealogy Webinars for advice on gathering documentation for your application.

I would like to hire someone to conduct research on my behalf.

- For a fee, our genealogy team can help you document your lineage, prepare an application for membership, or work through stubborn genealogical problems. Find out more about our Research Services offerings.
